

Days of curiosity 2008

Even without formally employed people we have started the 1% for society initiative. It means that everyone in spletin.net will benefit to better, more accessible society at least 1% of his working time monthly with unpaid social work and other giving activities. We are probably first in Slovenia in that.

I have started the other day. On Days of curiosity 2008 [1], organized by multimedia centre Kibla, I've shown my path and possibilities in computer science jobs. We have emphasized development trends (media convergence) that listeners, scholars of Media technician course, will be involved with in the future.

Presentation is available (in Slovenian only) at: <http://uredi.to/dr2008> [2].

I'll be glad to tell my story anytime to English speaking listeners if there's more interest.
